requessed to do so by a reporter of "The Evening World." Mr. Wilson said that he had no positive knowledge of such a state of affairs existing.

Mount Kisco received more attention by Commissioner Dally, of the Department of Public Works, than any other portion of the Groton water-shed. It was in that vicinity that the greater portion of the raiding was done by the Commissioner. Mount Kisco lies about a mile and a quarter east of Croton Lake, and is on both sides of Branch Brook, which empties into the latter. It was supposed that the nearly one hundred barrels of refuse gathered each day was being deodorized by the New York Fertilising Company, which has an office at $7 Nassau street, this city.

Since June 15, it has been deposited outside the Croton water-shed. A large quantity of the stuff has been dumped on Martin & Sutton's farm, only half a mile from Mount Kisco, there to rot in the sun, and finally the decomposition swept into Croton Lake by the first heavy rainstorm.

on swept instorm.

More of the foul stuff was dumped on or. Wetherell's farm and left to decay, in other places it was learned that reduse had been deposited and ploughed under.

The reason for the failure to decdorize the refuse, it seems, is that the Feriliizer Company can realize more money by selling the stuff along the shed than collecting k, and after decdorizing sending it to New Bedford, Mass., in

By disposing of it to farmers, who agree to plough the stuff under, the Company realizes a good thing. They get $1.20 per barrel and $2.40 per cask from the city, and added to this there is the percentage received from the farmers. Charles Schonwell, a butcher, of 91 Third avenue, resides with his family on a farm adjoining Martin & Sutton's place. He says the odor from the refuse on the adjoining farm is dreadful. Manager Kennedy's said in extenuation for the dumping of refuse indiscriminately over the water-shed:

"We used to deodorize the refuse collected with marl and ship it in barriels to New Bedford, Mass. There was great objection in the village to the odors, and so thought it the best plan to sell it to the farmers, who plough it under. We consider that the best way to get rid of the stuff. The engineer has informed me that none of our dumping places is nearer than 1,500 feet of the different water courses. The authorities say that it cannot pollute the water."

Commissioner Daly said the Fertilizer Company was to blame if the Croton water became polluted, and if on investigation it was discovered that it or any one else was guilty of polluting the Croton, an arrest would be ordered immediately.

President Wilson, of the Health Department, this morning had a special analysis made of a sample of Croton water taken from the hydrant at Bleecker and Mulberry streets. The analysis was made by Chemist Martin, and showed that the nitrites found in the samples analysized on July 7 had entirely disappeared.

"When I found he had deserted me I just hunted up Miss St. Clair, and we had him arrested." The arrest of Haines was made through the aid of Mrs. Haines No. 2, who went to the Haines residence last evening and waited at a parior window for her husband to come home.

Policemen Farrell and Foley were outside, and it had been agreed that when the right man came along she should wave a handkerchief. The programme was carried out to the letter.

The deserted wife engaged Mrs. Haines in conversation over her troubles, and when Laines, who had been fishing off the West Ninety-third street dock, came up the front steps about 7 o'clock with his fishing rod over his shoulder, the flutter of a white handkerchief apprised the Hawkshaws that their prey had come along, and Haines was pounced upon without more ado.

The young man begged to be allowed to see his parents and was taken into the house. There he saw his wife and kissed her affectionately.

Conscience-stricken at the part she had played in the arrest, the young woman fainted. Haines was taken to the Charles street station.

His story of his entanglement was that he first met Miss St. Clair in the old Palm Garden in Fourteenth street, where she was singing at the time. He was captivated by her grace and talent, and procured an intimacy.

Miss St. Clair claims to have been married to Haines by Rev. Dr. Norton, at 206 East Eighty-fourth street, and says she has a marriage certificate to prove it, but Haines denied that there was ever a ceremony. For two years the couple lived with Mrs. Haines, who

There is reason to believe that Policeman Hodge's friends have made overtures to Baran, in the hope that the proceedings would be discontinued. Waiter Baran was at Police Headquarters this morning. He is living with his brother at 186 Harmon street, Brocklyn, and is still incapacitated for work, and is cared for by his relatives.

"I was walking down Bowery yesterday afternoon," said Baran, "and was between Hester and Canal streets when a policeman approached me and said: What's the matter with your arm, young feller?" I told hin that a policeman had struck me, and he asked me who it was. I answered his question, and he began to make excuses for Hodge. You musn't be hard on the man, said he, for mebbe he was drunk and did it when he didn't know what he was doin." I ain't no friend of his, ye know, but I s'pose ye'd settle the case for a hundred, wouldn't ye?"

"I informed the policeman, who was a total stranger to me, that if he had any settling ao do, he must call on my counsel, William J. A. Caffrey. He kept me fully an hour talking about my case, which I can't see, for the life of me, could have been of any interest to him, an entire stranger to me.

"When I did leave him the last word he said was: 'Of course, young feller, this talk don't concern me, and I'm no friend of Hodge's."

"I did not think about the full import of his talk until afterward, when it occurred to me that he had been looking for me, and in the interest of Hodge. Else why should he have stopped me? My arm was not in the sling at the time."

Baran said that he could not remember the number of the policeman, but if he should meet him again he would recognize him. He believed that he was a policeman who was in the Court of Special Sessions the day he was discharged on the charge of assaulting Patrolman Hodge.

It was after 12 o'clock when Commissioner McClave called Policeman Hodge to trial. Baran, accompanied by his lawyer, Mr. Caffrey, and a streat many witnesses, had been waiting since 10.30 in the morning.

He told a story which was not damaged by cross-examination instituted by Commissioner McClave. Baran related the story as told in "The Evening World," save that the alleged brutality committed by Hodge, was even worse than supposed. Waiter Baran said:

"After Policeman Hodge overtook me he dragged me to the station-house, where in the doorway he put his club in my eye, which he had blackened, and said, "If you open that, I'll kill you." I asked the sergeant at the desk for protection, and he assured me that I need no more harm from Hodge. I was taken to the hospital, and then made to come back to the station-house again." Commissioner McClave here was called to attend a session of the Police Board, and the case was adjourned.

The Men Rejected the Terms Offered by the Mine Owners.

PITTSBURG, Kan., July 12.-The striking miners held a Delegate Conven-tion yesterday to vote upon the proposi-tion made by mine owners to settle the strike. The offer made by the owners for 54 cents a ton for mine run coal the year round, was voted down unanimously. The delegates will make a counter proposition to the owners.

proposition to the owners.

Fifty more miners went back to work yesterday in the mines of the Kansas and Texas Coal Company at Litchfield, the largest in the district. The Company is preparing to fill the strikers places with new men, and have ordered the strikers to vacate their houses.

Seven evictions were made yesterday by a deputy constable, and the feeling is beginning to run high.

The Company last night sent armed guards to their mines to protect their men and their property. It is believed trouble will follow speedily if the Company persists.

President Walters, of this district of the U. M. W. A., says he has promises of material aid from the Kansas Farmers' Alliance. Gov. Lewelling has also promised to send tents from Topeka for the use of the evicted miners.

In speaking of Bonner, the famous driver said. "The trouble with Bonner is that he has never got over the fact that the record of Maud S. was lowered by Nancy. It is to be regretted that Mr. Bonner talks as he does so often.
He has been a help to the turf in the way of stiffening the prices of horses, but his arguments over the sulky have been entirely out of place.
"I maintain that the conditions under which Maud S, broke the trotting record are not the standard conditions.
The progress of tracks, suikles, rigging and horses is natural. If Mr. Bonner is right, in arguing from old conditions, we should go back to the time of Fiora Temple.

"She pulled her ninety-pound sulky
over a track the like of which horsemen would not send a horse over these days.
There was no such riggings for horses
as there were when Maud S, made her record. Bonner's horse had all the advantages, and yet neither Mr. Bonner or any one would say that the record made by Temple should be counted the record instead of the time made by Maud S.

"Take again for an example Dexter.
When I drove him the conditions under the record instead of the time made by Maud S.

"Take again for an example Dexter. When I drove him the conditions under which he made his record were vastly inferior to those under which Maud S. made hers, and Mr. Bonner will not admit that Dexter's record should be called a better one than the time made by Maud S.
"So it is with Nancy. We are a progressive people, and everything good that is invented we take as the standard, Mr. Bonner is not talking in the true spirit when he says what he has said so often since Nancy took the record away from Maud S."

THE PRESIDENT RIDES AGAIN. But Decides Not to Go Fishing with Joe Jefferson To-Day.

BUZZARD'S HAY Mass. July 12 -The President decided not to accompany Joe Jefferson on a fishing trip to Peters Pond, in Sandwich, this morning. At 9 o'clock, accompanied by Secretary of War Lamont and Surgeon-Gen. of War Lamont and Surgeon-Gen, Bryant, he rode over to Bourne, where the party met Mr. Jefferson and his son at the junction of Sandwich road. After a few moments' conversation Col. Lamont and Dr. Bryant jumped into the Jefferson carriage and were soon on their way to the fishing grounds.

The President, with his driver, rode leisurely back to Gray Gables.

Board of Aldermen last night to protest against the license, but after hearing speeches on both sides the Board granted the license by a vote of $ to 2.

Acting Mayor Reuben Simpson, who presided, voted for the license.

After the adjournment the church people gave vent to their indignation in the Council Chamber and in the street. Monroe Simmons, a contractor, property owner, and church member, who lives at 100 West Side avenue, talked angrily to the Acting Mayor in the Council Chamber lobby, and intimated that he was a hypocrite and ought to be turned out of church.

Mr. Simpson is a member of the Linden Avenue M. E. Church. He answered Mr. Simmons that he had reasons for his vote, and then passed out and went home.

The jubilant advocates of the license made a parade in West Bergen with flags and horns. They stopped in front of the houses of School Director W. H. Beach, the Rev. John W. Atkinson and Charles Judge, who spoke against the license before the Aldermen, and tooted their horns and cheered. The saloon is gayly decorated to-day with flags, and is doing a great business.

The church people threaten to retailate at the polls on Acting Mayor Simpson and the other. Republican Aldermen, Martin and Kaiser, who voted for the license.

CONFESSED UNDER THREATS. Mrs. Holzhaure's Defense in Her

Husband's Divorce Suit. NEWARK, N. J., July 12 .- Vice-Chancellor Green is to-day hearing the di-vorce suit of Henry J. Holzhauer against his wife. Emma, the co-respondent being John Reinhard, a grocer, a married man with a family.

Mrs. Holzhauer on the stand testified that she had loaned Reinhard money, covered from catarrh of years' standing. Now I his wife. Emma, the co-respondent be-and that her husband, being jealous, had forbade her seeing Reinhard.

She learned from Mrs. Sadie Mason that Reinhard cailed at the latter's house every day to deliver groceries, and she went there on Feb. 9 to see him about the payment. He promised to pay on the following Wednesday, and it was while she was in the room with him that the detectives caught her.

Being shown a confession of guilt, signed by herself and Reinhard, she said that they had signed it because her husband had threatened to kill them. Herbert Holzhauer, aged twelve, son of the chief parties to the suit, testified that he had written a certain note in his father's name, authorizing his mother to settle with Reinhard.

The boy stated that his mother induced him to write it. The case will not be concluded to-day.
